Owing to the rainy weather, the meeting which was to have been held in the court house yard, gave up that meeting place for the commodious armory hall.

The meeting was called to order at 3 o'clock by county chairman Dr. S. C. Loring. Upon the motion of W. G. Hendricks, Louis E. Steinbach was selected to act as chairman of the convention, and Wm. C. Hendricks was selected as secretary of the meeting.

It was then voted that each of the ten townships select a member for the committee on Rules and Organization. The following committee was named: West township—Chas. Kehert, Center township—John A. McFarlin.

After the adoption of the rules, it was voted to proceed to nominate the county ticket. Edward M. Wright was the only candidate for representative and was given that nomination by acclamation. For auditor two candidates were named, A. A. Watkins of Union township and Charles Powell of Polk township. The latter received the nomination by the vote of 406 to 171.

For clerk, center township named Samuel Tomlinson and Charles Heim. The former mounted the chair, and stated that because of business connections, it would be impossible for him to be a candidate. Ira Kyser moved to make the nomination of Charles Heim unanimous, which carried with a vociferous "ay."

KILLED FOUR DOGS.
Marshal Jacoby Says That the Women Grab Their Canines and Run.

"That new dog tagging ordinance is pretty hard to explain, especially to the women," says Marshal Jacoby, "and I am having a hard time to make it clear. You see the idea of having just paid their dog tax, and then being required to pay another two dollars, looks like charging double for the canines, while the fact is the money which they have just paid was for 1909, and that which they pay for the tags is for 1910."

Jacoby related his tale of woe to the council last evening. So far, according to Jacoby, he has killed four dogs. About a dozen dog owners have promised to buy tags when pay day comes, and then there have been ten or twelve, who have refused to tag their dogs. "If they don't tag the critters, I will kill them," quoth his honor, the marshal.

Lots of times, when the marshal was seen coming, Jacoby says, the women would grab up their dogs and run into the house with them. One hundred and forty dog licenses have been issued since the passing of the ordinance.

AFTER DEALERS IN NORTHERN INDIANA

STATE CHEMIST SAYS THAT SHORT WEIGHTS ARE GIVEN IN BUTTER AND FLOUR.

Attempt to Punish Violators of Law Has Failed Because of Laxity on Part of City Officials.

Indianapolis, June 10.—State chemist H. E. Barnard, will prosecute short weight dealers who sell butter who are operating in northern Indiana. He says inspectors of the state board of health have found several places where dealers are doing this. It is especially true of dairy product he says. Inspectors of the state board of health purchased samples at many of the stores in the northern Indiana cities. In each instance it was found to be from one ounce to two ounces short in weight. In other places the package of butter weighed eight ounces gross, with the package, when it should have weighed eight ounces, net without the package.

Mr. Barnard instructed the inspectors to prosecute the short weight butter dealers, wherever they found them. He says one inspector called on the police judge in one place, and laid the matter before him and that the judge refused to have anything to do with the case for the reason that he used to do business himself. Then the inspector went to a couple of justices of the peace, he says, and they would not take the cases. But Mr. Barnard says the inspectors will go right ahead and show up the dealers in all places where they may be found selling short weight.

Flour Also Short in Weight.
Short weight flour is another article of which the inspectors find much in the stores throughout the state. Where an eighth barrel bag should weigh 24 1/2 pounds net, it weighs, in many instances, 24 1-2 pounds gross, or even less, some of them running as low as 22 pounds. The inspectors are on the look out for this short weight and bring it up to the required amount.

Some days ago an inspector found a lot of short weight flour in a grocery store at Linton. He required the dealer to fill the bags and bring them up to the legal weight, and Mr. Barnard received a letter from the dealer a day or two ago informing him that the order had been complied with and that the St. Louis Milling company, from which he bought the flour, had agreed to stand the loss. Mr. Barnard brought the matter of short weight flour to the attention of the recent state convention of the Indiana Millers' association and it was found that most of the millers of the state were complying with the law by giving full weight flour.

Center Township Report.
A copy of the report on Center township affairs has been made for transmission to Governor Marshall, but chief accountant Dehority is in New York and the copy has not yet reached the Governor's office.

Center township, Marshall county, appears to have been a paradise for supply men as there is another report which indicates some of the methods which have been in use there. When the examiners looked into the books of John Richards, present trustee, they found one item among the receipts which read: "Donation from supply man $4."

EX-TRUSTEES, CENTER TP., ARE IN BAD LIGHT

Fred Corse, Last Trustee, Owes the Township $11,009.25 According to Report of State Field Examiners Who Inspected the Books.

CHARLES TURNER PREYED ON TP.

Local Supply Man Said to Have Made Rich Haul Off Two Last Trustees—Donated John Richard Sum of $4.

The following from the Sunday morning edition of the Indianapolis News contains a number of bombshells, which are very "interesting" to residents of Plymouth and Center township.

A tale of extravagance and misconduct in office is told in the report which two field examiners made of their examination into the affairs of Fred Corse, who was trustee of Center township, Marshall county, from 1905 to 1908. The report, which was made public at the office of the state accounting board, says that Corse owes the township $11,009.25. The report also charges that Corse's predecessor in the office, C. P. Jackman, turned nothing over to Corse, when the latter assumed office, although the books showed that Jackman had on hand balances amounting to $6,506.99.

Corse, according to the report, refused to accept certain overdrafts from Jackman when the change was made, amounting to $250.72. Therefore, Corse started with nothing in any of the township funds. In other words he started at zero. But from the way the report reads, he began a career of official extravagance at once. During his term he spent $9,485.20 for supplies, for which he had no itemized bills. Much of this sum was spent with Charles Turner, a supply man of Plymouth, and S. D. Kiger & Co., of Indianapolis.

The examiners made the definite charge in their report that Corse "was extravagant and he made frequent illegal use of the funds of the township."

Unnecessary Supplies
When the examiners investigated they found that many of the supplies which Corse had purchased at high prices were unnecessary; that many of the road tools were unnecessary and unused; that there were stored in the office of the trustee many charts, portfolios and cabinets purchased for school use, but which were unnecessary and unused. They found also that the township advisory board had not made any appropriations for the purchase of these supplies as the board is required by law to do. A trustee has no right to spend township money unless an appropriation for that purpose has been made previously by the township advisory board.

The report says that during his term in office Corse overpaid himself $536.40 for salary and that he overpaid small sums on various other accounts.

In the case of Jackman, the former trustee, the examiners say that he was extravagant and that he was easy prey for supply men. They say he was dissipated and that since his retirement from office he has moved to the state of Washington and that he has no property in Indiana.

Center Township Report.
A copy of the report on Center township affairs has been made for transmission to Governor Marshall, but chief accountant Dehority is in New York and the copy has not yet reached the Governor's office.

Center township, Marshall county, appears to have been a paradise for supply men as there is another report which indicates some of the methods which have been in use there. When the examiners looked into the books of John Richards, present trustee, they found one item among the receipts which read: "Donation from supply man $4."

They asked Trustee Richard what it meant and he said the money was paid to him by Chas. Turner, a supply man of Plymouth. He said he bought a bill of goods of Turner amounting to $19.07, and the examiners found the voucher for the payment of the bill. Richard said that after he had paid Turner, the latter handed him $4. Richard refused to accept the money and Turner refused to take it back. So the trustee then put it into the township fund and credited it as a donation from a supply man.

Becomes Barren Waste.
The examiners added this comment to their report: "This one time fruitful field has since become a barren waste to Mr. Charles Turner." They found trustee Richard's record clear and gave him a clean bill.

Field examiners who investigated the affairs of J. F. Shutt, trustee of Jefferson township, Huntington county, recommended the further investigation of the cost of erecting a schoolhouse in that township. The records show that the township advisory board authorized the expenditure of $3,000 for the building. When bids were received the lowest bidder refused to take the contract on the plans prepared, and Shutt then gave the contract to David Shutt at $1650 for labor only, the trustee to furnish the materials. It develops that the total cost of the building was $4,304.08, which was $1,304.08 in excess of the appropriations. They found also that bridges and culverts had been constructed and paid for at double price.

Clean Bills.
Clean bills were given to the following trustees and former trustees: Decatur county—A. Footman Adams township.

Marshall county—Frank S. Nash, Polk township, except minor errors; Ed. R. Monroe, Polk township, former trustee.

Pike county—Benjamin F. Ferguson, Monroe township. Warrick county—Isiah Taylor, Anderson township.

Wayne county—F. W. Kienzie, Clay township; J. C. Taylor Dalton township.

Lake county—Mike J. Schillo Hanover township. Fountain County—Mark O. Smith, Shawnee township; Elias S. Waggoner, Richland township; Joseph Starkey, Fulton township; John C. Goodin Jackson township; Duly P. Frazier, Cain township; Chas. A. Brown Troy township; C. E. Short, former trustee Cain township; Jacob Fine and Robert Krout, former trustees, Jackson township; Lewis A. Riggins, Logan township.

Laporte county—Robert Hanson, Springfield township; Wm. M. Walton, Center township. The accounts of the school boards of the towns of Eaton and Albans were found to be in good shape.
